NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Independent country rapper Orion Nyles has announced the upcoming release of his latest studio recording, "Everywhere I Go", due Friday, August 28, 2026. Summarized description of song.

A seamless blend of country and hip hop, the haunting yet feel-good tune delivers an emotional duality showcasing Nyles' artistic talent. Working in collaboration with former The Voice contestant Brandon Chase, the duo seamlessly blends country and hip hop with a haunting yet upbeat feel. The lyrics reflect the inner struggle surrounding emotions brought forth by losing a loved one. The emotional grit of Nyles' rap verses are offset beautifully by Chase's powerful vocals. "Everywhere I go" demonstrates Nyles' artistic talent through a meticulous creative process and emotional vulnerability.

Taking inspiration from artists such as Prince, Don Henley, and Tupac, this track showcases the duality that defines Nyles' art. Fierce, poetic storytelling paired with instrumentation that cuts deep and leaves you wanting more. "Everywhere I go" blends heartfelt country melodies with emotionally charged rap beats resulting in a "blast with the windows down" anthem. Nyles paints a vivid picture of the lingering heartbreak caused by a lost loved one and the way it follows you around like a ghost. The song is a twist on classic country anthems, balancing haunting lyrics with a twangy, upbeat instrumentation driven by warm guitars and modern hip-hop production. "Everywhere I Go" is both a deeply personal reflection on loss and an anthem for anyone who has ever struggled to leave someone behind.
